

Jubilee

Plot Point 2 - Pursuit - 56 seconds - 2:17

Floating flying, gliding, sailing, hovering, twirling

High above the crowds, gliding through the air

Bear skin of the guard bobbing up and down

Halting, stopping, pausing, coming to a standstill, dog runs ahead

The Queen's hat swirled and twirled in the wind, high above the crowd. The guard's bear skin bobbing up and down in pursuit of the article. Upon a red light he stands to attention, whilst the cheeky Betsy scampers on ahead only to face a set of steep stairs - determined she clammers up.

Green light signals, guard runs in his upright stance, corgi falters at the steps but endeavours to climb them.

Beefeater finds the bonnet and is surprised to find 4 silver coins and accurately pours them into a nearby cup.

Racing past her, the Beefeater strides up the steps and retrieves the hat. Inside are four shiny silver coins which he accurately pours into a nearby cup. Relieved to have found it, he marches back to the palace with Betsy yapping at delight at not only mastering the steps but knowing the Queen would be delighted to have her hat back. Striding down the famous London Road, a double decker whizzes by and the wind snatches the hat once again.

Relieved to have found the hat, the guard marches back to the palace.

Filled with joy the corgi makes it to the top. Yapping at his delight the missing hat has been found, wont the Queen be happy they have found it.
